ENDODONTISTS HONORED FOR SAVING UNDERPRIVILEGED TEENS' TEETH

The Palm Beach County Health Department Dental Program recently honored nine endodontists who have sponsored the "Save a Molar" program for the underprivileged teenagers in need of a root canal. Until these doctors began the program, the only alternative for these teens was extraction of the affected tooth through the Dental Program at the Palm Beach County Health Department. Upon referral from the Health Department, young patients are treated at no charge in the private offices of these generous dentistry specialists, where the tooth is saved for the teen.

"These doctors are all very dedicated to preserving healthy teeth in all children of the county. I hope that more will follow their example and participate in this very important program that assures good dental health," said Dental Director Dr. Philippe Bilger at the ceremony on July 21, 2010.
